

Abstract of The Disclosure

In a child seat and a method for child-seat detection, a radio-identification chip, which is configured solely as a transmitter module, is introduced in the child seat, preferably in the fabric. Due to the automatically emitted radio signal, the child seat is 5 detected by corresponding receiver devices in the vehicle.